as a listener than others. Poetry After Lunch: Poems to Read Aloud by Joyce Armstrong ... I went out. After lunch I saw it in a different light, like a thing emerging from behind a fever bush, something reaching the senses with the smell of seaweed boiling, and as visible as yellow snowdrops on black earth. Tasted it too, on the tongue Jamaica pepper. To the touch, a velvet flower ... The Painting After Lunch by Clarence Major | Poetry Foundation After eating lunch, I feel so sleepy. Waking later, I sip two bowls of tea, then notice shadows aslant, the sun already low in the southwest again. Joyful people resent fleeting days. Sad ones can't bear the slow yers. It's those with no joy and no sorrow— they trust whatever this life brings. After Lunch Poem by Bai Juyi - Poem Hunter You can download Poetry After Lunch: Poems to Read Aloud in pdf format Poetry After Lunch: Poems to Read Aloud - Download Free eBook The full poem can be read here. After the Lunch Structure. The structure of After the Lunch follows an ABAB rhyme scheme which flows throughout the whole poem. This use of rhyming couplets is classic to the love poetry which Cope is drawing upon, with the image of two lovers being reflected through the paired couplets. Moreover, the songlike rhythm evoked by the rhyme scheme gives the poem a childlike cadence, further relating to the idea of falling in love and the giddy emotions surrounding it. Analysis After The Lunch poem by Wendy Cope. On Waterloo Bridge where we said our goodbyes The weather conditions bring tears to my eyes. I wipe them away with a black woolly glove. Page After The Lunch Poem by Wendy Cope - Poem Hunter 'After the Lunch' Themes. As part of the theme of love present with all poems in the 'Love Poetry through the Ages' Anthology, 'After the Lunch' specifically looks at the theme of romance and falling in love. It is also interesting to consider how the poem could link to the idea of young or juvenile love, due to the buoyant and happy nature of the poem, yet at the same time the effort to restrict and limit these emotions may suggest that the speaker is older and attempting to ...
